

Dr. Vladimir Uskov

Dr. Vladimir Uskov is a professor of computer science and information systems at Bradley University (Peoria, IL, USA). He is also a co-Director of the InterLabs Research Institute at Bradley University.

His areas of expertise include Web-Based Education or e-Learning (1995 – present), Applications of Information Technologies in Education (1985 – present), Software Engineering (1979 – present), including Web-Based Software Engineering (1996 – present), and Programming Languages (1979 – present).

Dr. Uskov has more than 230 professional publications, including 3 textbooks, 3 book chapters, and 42 published articles in referred journals in 3 different languages.

Dr. Uskov is the Editor-in-Chief of the international journal on Advanced Technology for Learning (ISSN: 1710-2251). He is also a member of editorial boards of 3 international referred journals on Web-based education.

Dr. Uskov received numerous grants in his areas of expertise from the National Science Foundation (NSF), Microsoft Corp., and various governmental institutions. Currently, Dr. Uskov is a principal investigator of the NSF grant # 0420506 (2004-2008) in Information Technology area. He was a Principal Investigator of the NSF grant # 0196015 on Web-Based Education (2001-2004), and co-principal investigator of the NSF grant # 9950029 (1999-2003) and grant # 0002219 (2000-2001).

Recently, Dr. Uskov was a Keynote and Invited Presenter at multiple professional meetings such as:

- June 2007: Quality Issues in e-Learning intern. conf. (Sochi, Russia),
- May 2007: Advanced e-Learning workshop (Rome, Italy),
- Mar 2007: Bologna Process and e-Learning workshop (Bern, Switzerland),
- Feb 2007: Technology for Advanced e-Learning workshop (Lawrence, Kansas, USA),
- Dec 2006: e-Learning and e-Training conference (Kingston, Jamaica)
- Nov 2006: e-Learning: Best Practices workshop Trondheim, Norway)
- Oct 2006: CURAC-2006 int. conference (Hannover, Germany)
- Mar 2006: Computer and Communication Technologies in Education (Hsin-Chu, Taiwan),
- Mar 2006: e-Learning Forum (Tokyo, Japan),
- Nov 2005: eNgaging e-Learning (Johannesburg, South Africa),
- Oct 2005: e-Learn-2005 (Vancouver, Canada),
- July 2005: Online Universities (Sankt-Petersburg, Russia),
- May 2005: e-Learning Expo and Conference (Moscow, Russia),
- Oct 2004: Advances in Computer Science (Mexico City, Mexico),
- Sep 2004: 33rd IGIP/IEEE/ASEE Congress on Engineering Education (Friburg, Switzerland),
- July 2004: 2004 World e-Learning Forum and Expo (Tokyo, Japan), and other professional meetings.

Dr. Uskov is a chair of the annual international conferences on Web-Based Education (WBE-2002 – WBE-2008) and Computers and Advanced Technology in education (CATE-2002 – CATE-2008).

Dr. Uskov taught regular academic courses in Russia (Moscow State Technical University, 1988-1995) and in the USA (Michigan State University, University of Cincinnati, and Bradley University, 1995 – present). He was a visiting professor in various universities of France, Germany, Holland, and Italy.

Dr. Uskov is a Member of the Executive Board of the IEEE Technical Committee on Learning Technology, Senior Member of the IEEE, IEEE Computer Society, IEEE Education Society, ACM, AACE, IASTED and the International Academy on Information Networking.

Contact information:

Email: uskov@bradley.edu

URL : <http://www.interlabs.bradley.edu/uskov>

Phone : + 1 309 677 2461 (direct), + 1 309 677 2460 (secretary)

Fax : + 1 309 677 4504